In Goes a Tin of Instant Postum

At home or traveling, it's easy to have this delightful beverage by dissolving a teaspoonful of the soluble powder in a cup of hot water, and adding sugar and cream.

The snappy flavor is much like that of mild, high-grade Java, but Postum is pure and absolutely free from caffeine, the poisonous drug in coffee.

Some people find that coffee causes headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, indigestion, etc.—and that such coffee troubles usually vanish with a change to

POSTUM

"There's a Reason"

Men Fight On Their Stomachs

Napoleon so said. A man with a weak stomach is pretty sure to be a poor fighter. It is difficult—almost impossible—for anyone, man or woman, to succeed in business or socially—or to enjoy life. In tablet or liquid form.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

helps weak stomachs to strong healthy action—helps them to digest the food that makes the good, rich, red blood which nourishes the entire body.

This vegetable remedy, to a great extent, puts the liver into activity—oil the machinery of the human system, so that those who, and their working hours at the desk, behind the counter, or in the home are rejuvenated into vigorous health.

Has brought relief to many thousands every day for over forty years. It cures you and doubtless restores to you your form and health and strength. At least you owe it to yourself to give it a trial. Sold by Medicine Dealers or write for full particulars to Dr. Pierce's Medical Institute, Little Rock, Ark.

During The Balance of This Month The Union Supply Company Will continue the clearance, clean-up, rummage sales in every one of our stores. There is going to be a great cleaning out of summer odds and ends, and this means bargains in every department. Drygoods, notions, millinery, shoes, made-up raiment, for men, women, boys and girls. It means a great money saving time. There will be two months yet in which you can wear this class of goods, and granting that they are not worn out at that time, the purchases you make will be good for next season. There are many styles of dresses and other school wear for the little girls. There are good, stylish, knock-about suits and shoes for the boys, and it will be necessary to outfit them for the opening of school, which will be soon. The clearing out rummage sales will allow you to do it at a small outlay of money. Every store in our system is displaying these bargains, showing wonderful reductions. We hope you will call and see them; inspect them. You are under no obligations to buy.

HOW A NEW POPE IS SELECTED AT CARDINALS' SECRET CONCLAVE

Public Is Admitted During First Day—Door Seldom Opened Thereafter.

Prefates Locked Up Until Choice Is Made—Methods of Balloting.

THE procedure attending the choice of a new pope is full of interest. There was a time when the election of the supreme head of the church was vested in the cardinal bishop, with the consent of the other cardinals and clergy and people of Rome, saying also the honor due to the king of the Romans. But this recognition of a kingly and imperial right to interfere with the papal elections was the cause of endless troubles. It proved to be a fertile source of anti-papal and other vexations, and finally became so intolerable that Alexander III. took away from the imperial line the last standing in papal elections, and a general council later on, held at the Lateran, decreed the election should henceforth rest "with the cardinals alone." This Lateran decree was confirmed and developed at the council at Lyons, presided over by Pope Gregory X., and in all substantial features the discipline then laid down still obtains in all papal elections.

The immediate body of convention which chooses the head of the church is called a conclave. The building or hall in which such convention is held is also designated by the same name. The election of a pope must begin ten days after the death of the last incumbent. It is provided that the election shall neither be delayed nor precipitated, that the electors should be in no fear for their personal safety and that they must not be subjected to any external persuasion in casting their vote. Immediately upon the death of a pope one of the secretaries of the sacred college notifies each cardinal of the pontiff's demise and summons him to the city in which terment of the pontiff and convenes in the hall of the consistory and receive the condolences of the ambassadors of the various governments which have representatives at Rome. This official ceremony at an end, preparations are made to elect a new pope and the meeting of the cardinals, officially known as a conclave, is called. The word conclave is especially fitting to designate the meeting. It comes from the word clavis, meaning key, and at the meeting the cardinals are actually under lock and key. This custom of locking up the cardinals until a choice is made can be traced back to the thirteenth century.

At the inaugural of the conclave the cardinals form in line in order of rank and march to St. Peter's, where the mass of the Holy Spirit is sung and their listen to a sermon, the pro eligendo pontifice.

Attendants on the Cardinals.

The master of ceremonies then takes the papal cross and the cardinals form in a body behind him, with their personal attendants following. Each cardinal has two attendants. The pontifical choir then chants the "Veni, Creator Spiritus."

Next follows the reading of the apostolic constitution by the dean of the cardinals. Practically everything is now in readiness for the cardinals to proceed with the actual election, but in order that they have time to meditate on the meaning of the constitution an adjournment is taken until afternoon.

At this time they meet and receive the oath of the attendants and officers of the election. After this preliminary there is more time for meditation and individual prayer.

In the evening, as has been said, the conclave is closed to all but the cardinals and the attendants and officers leave the palace. The last door is locked and the keys turned over to the chamberlain. "The conclave and the marshal, two officers appointed among the palace officials, then guard the door. Sentinels are also stationed in every room adjoining the chamber to see that there is no communication.

Except to announce that a new pope has been chosen, this door may be opened only in the event of the sickness of one of the cardinals.

Within the palace the cardinals spend the night in silence and prayer and meditation preparatory to the real business of the election the next day.

Methods of Election.

There are three ways in which a new pontiff may be elected without balloting: by acclamation, inspiration and adoration. Gregory VII. was elected by acclamation, but since in which a pontiff has been chosen other than by balloting have been rare.

The balloting is secret, and the ballots which are used are elaborate affairs. They are three part ballots. On one fold are the name of the cardinal, his title and his seals. On another fold is a number, and under this each cardinal places a motto, known only to himself, in order to identify his ballot after it is voted.

Then he says aloud the electoral oath.

Then he witnesses, Christ the Lord, who will judge me, that I choose him whom I judge before God should be chosen, and I will do the same on the accession.

With these words each cardinal drops his ballot in the chalice, salutes the cross and returns to his place.

Two-thirds Vote Needed.

It takes a two-thirds majority to elect any one, and generally no one is eligible but a member of the college of cardinals. This is laid down by custom rather than by law, however.

If no one has the necessary majority the voting must be continued. If a cardinal wishes to change his first vote he writes on his second ballot, "Accedo Rev. D. meo card.," if he wishes to stand by his first choice he writes on his second ballot, "Remitto," meaning nobody. No cardinal may vote for himself, and if it were found that one had been elected who had voted for himself, no matter how great a majority he might have, his election would be void.

Some one having received the necessary votes, the dean of the cardinals goes to the pope elect and says:

"Do you accept the election canonically made to the supreme pontificate?"

Upon the pope elect signifying that he does, his cardinal's robes are taken off and a papal gown placed on him; then he takes his seat in a great chair before the altar, and the chamberlain places the fisherman's ring on his finger. The cardinals then make their first obeisance to the new pope, kissing his foot and hand and accepting from him the "kiss of peace." He announces the name by which he wishes to be known.

Announcing a New Pope.

Preceded by the pontifical choir chanting "Deo Sacros Magnus," the senior cardinal goes to the balcony of the palace and to the waiting populace below announces:

I announce to you a great joy. We have as pope the most eminent and most revered cardinal of the holy Roman church, who has taken the name of —

While great crowds surround the palace waiting for this announcement, the fact that a new pope has been chosen is always known some time before this, because when the deciding vote is cast the ballots are placed in a little stove kept for that purpose and burned. The crowds see the smoke arise and know that a new pontiff has been elected.

The sacred college, which will choose a successor to Pope Pius, consists of sixty-five cardinals, of whom thirty-three are Italians and thirty-two of other nations. Normally the college consists of seventy cardinals, but there were five vacancies at the time Pope Pius died.

Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore is the senior American member of the sacred college in point of service. He was made a cardinal June 7, 1889.

When a Pope Dies.

As soon as a pope breathes his last the cardinal chamberlain takes possession of the apostolic palace. He proceeds to the death chamber, assures himself at, and instructs a notary to certify to the fact that the pope is really dead. Then the ring of the highman is broken and the seal destroyed. The body is contained and carried in procession to the Chapel of the Blessed Sacrament in the Vatican basilica, where it remains for three days, the feet protruding a little through an opening in the iron railing which encloses the chapel, that the faithful may approach and kiss the embowered shroud. The nine days of funeral services are gone through with.

During the last three days the services are performed at an elevated and magnificent catafalque. On each of these days five cardinals in turn give the absolution, and on the ninth day a funeral oration is pronounced. The body is reverently put into a cypress wood coffin. This is put into a leaden case, properly inscribed, and then all is placed in a wooden box covered with a red pall, and in this condition it is carried to the last resting place, previously selected by the deceased.

On the tenth day the cardinal assembly in the forenoon, and the preparations are made for the conclave.

Francesco Cardinal Della Volpe, the present cardinal chamberlain, was born at Ravenna, Italy, Dec. 24, 1844. He was appointed a cardinal June 19, 1909, and cardinal chamberlain last May.

LEARN LESSON OF SECRECY.

Nations in This War Following the Example Set by Japan.

While Japan has borrowed most of her military science from Europe, she taught the west, in return, the enormous value of secrecy in warfare. All the powers engaged in the European death struggle have learned that lesson.

The censorship which has been drawn around Europe's war zone is chiefly responsible for the success of this secrecy. No telegram, private or for the newspapers, goes out of any belligerent country without passing under the eye of a censor.

British newspapers discuss the war more freely than do the continental papers, but under the imperative request of the war office they say nothing of the movements of troops or ships. German newspapers, according to reports, print only official news.

Pretty Blunt.

Elderly Lady—Doctor, I am troubled with a halitosis that I am being followed by a man. What sort of cure would you suggest? Honest Physician—A mirror.—Cleveland Leader.

Logical.

"A disease should be attacked at its source."

"Then if a man's disease is hereditary I suppose you'd doctor his father for it, eh?"—Exchange.

LIEGE

Between the foe and France was she—France the immortal, France the free. The foe, like one vast, living sea, drew nigh.

He dreamed that none his tide would stay, But when he bade her to make way, She, through her cannon, answered, "Nay, Not I!"

No tremor and no fear she showed; She held the pass, she barred the road, White death's unslumbering foot beat on The ground.

So long as deeds of noblest worth Are sung 'mid joy and tears and mirth, Her glory shall to the ends of earth stand.

Watched by a world that yearned to aid, Lonely she stood, but undimmed; Resplendent was the part she played—And pure.

Praised be her heroes, proud her sons; She threw her soul into the guns; Her name shall with the bravest ones be done!

PARCEL POST EXHIBITS AT COUNTY FAIRS THIS FALL.

Authorized by Bureau to Familiarize Farmers With Postal Facility.

To meet a widespread demand parcel post exhibits will be a feature at many of the thousands of county fairs and other rural gatherings to be held in the United States this fall. Postmaster General Burleson has authorized postmasters at all county seats to provide for the exhibits.

The purpose is to use an opportunity which, it is believed, offers an excellent means of showing the rural public how to take full advantage of this comparatively new postal facility. Scores of the postmasters took the initiative and wrote the department asking permission to install and conduct such visual demonstrations of the parcel service.

More particularly the county fair displays will give farmers an object lesson in the working of direct exchange between country and city of the less bulky articles of farm production. Sample packing boxes and containers such as have proved satisfactory in experiments conducted jointly by the postoffice department and the office of the markets of the department of agriculture are to be placed on view. Literature describing in detail how best to serve the necessities of city consumers will be distributed by postal employees, who will conduct the exhibits.

An appropriation is not available to meet the costs of preparing and maintaining postal displays of the kind. But the department is informed that in the majority of cases space for the government's use can be had free of charge. Suitable exhibits of sample containers and shipments can be prepared at little or no cost. Postmasters are authorized to give as much of their personal time and attention to the preparation of the exhibits as may be necessary.

RUSSIANS JEWS' SAD LOT.

Serving in Army Only Civil Right, but

Car Expected to Confer Equality.

It is reported that the czar will sign a proclamation at an early date giving the Jews in his dominions equal civil and political rights.

The sole civil or political right that the Russian born Jew shares with other Russians today is that of military service, which is compulsory.

Not only is the Russian Jew without the right to vote, hold office or otherwise participate in the civil or political affairs of the kingdom, but he is compelled to live within the "pale," a section consisting of twenty-five provinces of the Russian empire. A few privileged Jews are permitted residence in any part of Russia, but 03.9 per cent of Russian Jews are confined to the "pale."

Spies Like Forts to Resist Air Foe.

At Cologne and other large cities in Germany church towers have been fitted up as guard stations to watch for aeroplanes, and light guns now point to the skies beside the steeples.

So live with men as if God saw you; so speak with God as if men heard you.—Seneca.

HOW TO KEEP DOWN COST OF LIVING DURING WAR.

Here is a list of "don'ts" compiled by Commissioner of Weights and Measures Hurligan of New York for housewives who want to keep down the cost of living:

Don't be afraid of the shop-keeper.

Don't let him weigh the paper, twine, tray or any other container and charge you for it.

Don't accept a pithy package unless it is labeled with its weight. There's a fine for not so marking it.

Don't let the butcher rest his finger on a projecting bone and don't let him press his body against the scale.

Don't let the tradesman engage you in gossip while he is weighing your purchase.

Don't forget to reweigh everything at home.

Don't be too proud or too lazy to do your own buying.

Don't buy in small quantities if you can help it.

Don't ask for a "nickel's worth." Specify weight or quantity.

STORE CLOSING DAILY AT 5:30, SATURDAYS 9 P. M.

Society Brand Clothes

EVERY town has a few people who, in dress, stand out above the crowd. Their clothes distinguish them. Always, they look fit and comfortable, they wear them with absolute ease.

We wonder sometimes if these few are gifted with a special style-sense; if they possess a clothes-instinct denied the greater number of people.

Instead of merely glancing at their smart attire, analyze their appearance and the secret will not be such a complex thing after all. Here it is.

Generally, the distinctive dresser patronizes a store that leads in quality-apparel. They choose with the aid of a style-schooled salesperson the modish clothing and accessories of dress that looks best on them. Good taste, ample variety and a price range to suit all purses does the trick. You have the same chance if you shop intelligently. But—

Make sure of the store before trusting it to work a transformation in your appearance, (the result may be just as startling in the opposite direction.)

This Wright-Metzler store is Connellsville's selling place of style-supreme goods. It is largest in town, its stocks are largest and most varied, its prices are low and cover a wide range of different good grades. Here, the finest merchandise that comes to town, the best-chosen, the most exclusive, the different, distinctive, high-type goods superior to that of other stores.

All apparel for men and women—and children—is ready today for viewing and choosing. Let us help you into the class whose style you so much admire. We invite inspection of the new.
